How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

For the 12-month period ended June 30, 2024, the Fund outperformed its regulatory benchmark, the Bloomberg Municipal Bond Index.

WHAT FACTORS INFLUENCED PERFORMANCE

Positive contributions to relative performance were led by active yield curve positioning and individual security selection, during a period of elevated interest rate volatility. The municipal yield curve became severely inverted over the past year, with intermediate-maturity bonds yielding dramatically less than both short-term and longer-term bonds. These dynamics led us to actively position the portfolio in a duration barbell, which benefitted relative and absolute returns as the curve began to normalize by mid-2024. Bond selection was also additive to performance as many of our active sector and individual credit overweights outperformed the broad market.

POSITIONING

We tactically added to a duration barbell with a dramatic overweight to ultra-short duration bonds, and large weightings to longer duration bonds. We maintained an overweight in revenue-backed municipal sectors and added tactically to, Affordable Housing, Transportation, and Renewable Electric, while trimming our positions in Higher Education and Healthcare.

PERFORMANCE

The Fund outperformed its benchmark in a volatile market. Much of our outperformance was driven by downside protection, particularly during the second half of 2023 as interest rates rose sharply. This performance was further bolstered by solid credit selection and active duration management for the entire period.

How did the Fund perform since inception?*

The $10,000 chart reflects a hypothetical $10,000 investment in the class of shares noted and does not assume the maximum sales charge. The chart uses total return NAV performance and assumes reinvestment of dividends and capital gains. Fund expenses, including 12b-1 fees, management fees and other expenses were deducted. Performance for other share classes will vary.
